

History of India South Province

The Vice-Province of India South came into existence on 1st January 1995 when the Indian Province which stretched from Halflong in Assam to Preshitha Matha in Kerala was divided into three Vice-Provinces, South, Central and North-East. These were established as provinces on 1st January 2000. Today RNDMs in India South are working in Karnataka, Kerala and Tamil Nadu. Though there are some similarities among the people of these states, the culture, traditions, language and life style are significantly different.

Logo of the province

Purnakumbha is a pot filled with water and topped with fresh mango leaves and a coconut.

It is an object symbolizing God and the pitcher.

The pot symbolizes - Mother Earth

The water - The Life Giver

The Leaves - Life

The Coconut - Divine Consciousness
